Skylake Drilling Partners with Microplan to Offer Borehole Drilling Services on Credit for Civil Servants

Skylake Drilling is excited to announce a groundbreaking partnership with Microplan, a proud member of FBC Holdings Group, aimed at making access to water easier for civil servants across the country. This collaboration enables civil servants to finance borehole drilling services on favorable terms, with the convenience of monthly loan repayments directly deducted from their salaries.

A Solution for Civil Servants

With the increasing need for sustainable water solutions, many households and communities are turning to borehole drilling as a long-term investment. However, financing such projects can be a challenge for many. Skylake Drilling and Microplan have come together to bridge this gap by providing civil servants with a unique opportunity to access borehole drilling services on credit.

Affordable Credit Terms

Through this partnership, civil servants can now enjoy flexible repayment terms with a 5% monthly interest rate on the principal balance. The repayment period extends up to 24 months, allowing for manageable, predictable payments. The loan process is further simplified by automatic deductions from civil servants' salaries through the Social Security Benefit (SSB) system, ensuring seamless and hassle-free repayments.

Bringing Water Access Within Reach

This partnership underscores Skylake Drilling's commitment to making essential services accessible to all. With borehole drilling being a critical solution for reliable water access, especially in rural and underserved areas, this financing option offers a much-needed opportunity for civil servants to invest in a sustainable water supply for their homes or communities.
